

FOOD & WINE

September 2007

Hanzell Winemaker, Michael Terrien (left) with Jean and Bob Sessions

Hanzell

The only way to visit this established producer, which made some of the first Chardonnay to be fermented in stainless steel, is to book one of two tours, which are often led by Ben Sessions, son of winemaker emeritus Bob Sessions. The “Heritage” includes a tasting of two current releases; the “Wine Library” adds at least two decade-old wines.

MUST-BUY BOTTLES:

The rich, powerful 2004 Sonoma Valley Chardonnay and the tight, minerally 2004 Sonoma Valley Pinot Noir.

www.hanzell.com
707.996.3860